

Aviation instructor honoured with lifetime achievement award

Posted on October 30, 2012 by Andrea Bellamy

Lynne Denison Foster in the hangar of the BCIT Aerospace Technology Campus in Richmond.

Congratulations are due to Lynne Denison Foster, winner of a BC Aviation Council Silver Wings Awards – Lifetime Achievement for her many years as a leading aviation educator at BCIT.

Lynne was instrumental in the launch of BCIT's Airport Operations diploma programs. In her present role as an instructor in the Airport Operations program, she is responsible for teaching and developing courses related to leadership and communication in aviation safety and customer service for both faculty and students.

"It was 43 years ago that I started working in the aviation industry and I have spent over 38 of those years in the classroom as an instructor, first in the airline and now at BCIT," says Lynne. "I am so grateful to BCIT for allowing me to be able to continue to share my love and passion for the aviation world, in which I have spent my entire adult life!"

The Lifetime Achievement award was presented during the Silver Wings Awards gala on October 25 at Vancouver International Airport South Terminal.